	Information on how the price was set, including the cost accounting methodologies used and information about the specific principles according to which direct and variable joint costs are allocated and fixed joint costs are apportioned		The market data prices were set on reasonable commercial basis, by considering all the relevant direct- and indirect cost elements. The costing methodology is based on the proportion of live labour associated with the production and/or distribution of market data. In order to establish an appropriate allocation rate, BSE has taken into account which of the Exchange's employees' daily work is related to the process of selling information. For these employees, BSE examined what percentage of their total working time is spent on tasks related to the production and/or distribution of market data. The allocation key for the different cost types is based on the location of the cost group.
